

Truth and the good life

emith (yes, it's with a little "e") is an alt-folk band with a sound that mixes the real clarity of Joni Mitchell and Judy Collins with the intricate lyrics of early Fleetwood Mac or Fairport Convention. It's a combo that makes you actually sit down and listen.

And that's exactly what you can do from 6-10 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 12, in the Amphitheater at The River in Rancho Mirage.

emith, a hybrid translation of "truth" and "the good life," is an acoustic duo made up of Stevie Gurr on guitar and harmonica and singer/song-writer Carol Havery.

The group was part of the recent Concert for Katrina here in the valley.

The amphitheater is between PF Chang's and The Cheesecake Factory in front of Century at The River movie theater at 71-800 Highway 111 in Rancho Mirage. Information: 760-341-2711.
